Where love and quality care go hand in hand.....

Playroom Swap....

Super excited to announce the swap of my playroom & living room. With my husbands approval I will be able to transform the entrance living room into a more structured place. Hoping to create a structured learning environment where the kids will love to spend their time when they are in my care. I have added a daycare table which I hope will become the center and main area of learning and playing. I will be adding more bookcase like shelving where the kids can have access to the toys at their eye level. Since it is a smaller area, I will be limiting the toys I will have upstairs, but I will be swapping them on a weekly basis. This will give them something exciting and new to play with every week. I am open to any ideas or suggestions to the new space.

Daycare Pics

I love to take pictures of the kids so that you can take a peek at what goes on during their time with me. So happy when I can capture their joy and laughter in the pictures.

Here is the link to my pictures. (Until I can figure out how to put them on my website with a sign in page)

Classes and training

I want to thank you very much for supporting me every Tuesday by picking up the kids by 5pm so I can get to my trainings on time. Glad to let you know that I only have a few weeks left to go. December 14 will be the last Tuesday. I will be graduating December 18 from the Protégé program. There is still more steps I have to do in order to get my CDA credential, which should take a couple more months but I am very happy to have made it this far already.

Weather

Please remember to dress the children according to the weather. I try to take them out every single day. If you would like you can leave a hat and gloves here so they are available to them when we go out.

Holidays and Vacation

I am letting you know that I will be closed the last week of December. Please make any necessary arrangements for the care of you child if you will be working that week. Note above the Holiday dates I will be closed.

Hope you enjoyed it !
